
CONSUMER FINANCIAL PROTECTION BUREAU

REQUEST FOR APPROVAL UNDER THE “GENERIC INFORMATION COLLECTION PLAN FOR THE COLLECTION OF QUALITATIVE FEEDBACK ON THE SERVICE DELIVERY OF THE CONSUMER FINANCIAL PROTECTION BUREAU”

(OMB Control Number: 3170-0024)

1. TITLE OF INFORMATION COLLECTION:

Office of Civil Rights (OCR) Customer Feedback Surveys

2. PURPOSE:

The OCR within the CFPB (or Bureau) carries out the agency’s equal employment opportunity program. As part of this program, per Equal Employment Opportunity Commission regulations at 29 C.F.R. Part 1614, OCR oversees the EEO Complaint Process. This EEO process allows both current Bureau employees and applicants for Bureau employment to raise and pursue complaints alleging violations of the federal employment anti-discrimination laws (such as Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973). The EEO process consists of two phases – the informal (or “EEO counseling”) phase and the formal complaint phase.

In addition, OCR maintains a workplace ADR program. Under this program, the Bureau uses licensed contract mediators to help Bureau employees and (in appropriate cases) applicants for Bureau employment resolve workplace-related conflicts. ADR gives parties a chance for an early, more informal resolution of workplaces disputes in a mutually satisfactory way. ADR may be used to attempt to resolve EEO complaints and non-EEO workplace matters.

OCR’s EEO Complaints Program sends out voluntary web-based surveys to individuals who have completed EEO counseling and to individuals who have filed a formal EEO complaint. OCR’s ADR Program also sends out voluntary web-based surveys to individuals who have participated in mediations. These survey responses help OCR better understand participant perspectives and experiences. The survey feedback is used to evaluate the efficiency and effectiveness of OCR operations, and to drive improvements or enhancements.

3. DESCRIPTION OF RESPONDENTS:

Survey respondents typically consist of current Bureau employees who have sought EEO counseling, filed a formal EEO complaint, or used ADR to resolve a workplace dispute. On occasion, individuals who are not current Bureau employees may also be asked to complete these voluntary surveys. For instance, non-employees who apply for Bureau employment and are not hired may sometimes allege that the Bureau refused to select them for discriminatory reasons in violation of federal law. These non-Bureau employees may seek EEO Counseling and file a formal EEO complaint with OCR. In appropriate occasions, these individuals may also be invited to participate in ADR to resolve the matter through mediation. Thus, non-Bureau employees who have completed EEO counseling, filed a formal EEO complaint, and/or participated in ADR at the Bureau may be asked to complete a voluntary web-based survey describing their experiences with these activities and providing suggestions for program improvements.

6. INFORMATION COLLECTION PROCEDURES

A survey invitation will be sent to an individual who engaged in the informal EEO process, formal EEO process, or ADR process at the end of these processes. If this individual is represented by an attorney, the survey invitation will be sent to the attorney first requesting permission to send the survey directly to the individual. If the individual is not represented by an attorney, the survey invitation will be sent directly to the individual.

Staff will check back in a week and if no response was received they will send a reminder email. No more than one reminder will be sent.

All surveys are web-based. CFPB's Office of Civil Rights will email a link to the appropriate web-based survey to identified respondents (as described in responses to Questions/Sections (2) and (3) above).

9. ASSURANCES OF CONFIDENTIALITY:

- a. Will a pledge of confidentiality be made to respondents? ☒ Yes ☐ No

If yes, please cite the statute, regulation, or contractual terms supporting the pledge.

Two of the surveys relate to participation in ADR. The Alternative Dispute Resolution Act, at 5 U.S.C. § 574, requires neutrals and parties to ADR proceedings to keep dispute resolution communications confidential (with limited exceptions). Consistent with this core component of ADR, CFPB assures ADR survey respondents that their survey responses will be kept confidential to the extent feasible, and cautions survey respondents not to provide information in response to surveys that would reveal specifics about matters discussed during relevant ADR proceedings.

Two of the surveys deal with the federal-sector EEO process, at 29 C.F.R. Part 1614. Under rules governing this Part 1614 process, information regarding an individual's EEO complaint and related proceedings also must be kept confidential and cannot be shared with anyone who does not have a need to know the information. Accordingly, survey respondents are informed that their responses and/or comments will remain anonymous, that OCR will not try to identify the respondent or distribute individual responses or comments to anyone else (unless required to do so by law).

The survey reminds respondents that confidentiality is critical to the integrity and success of the EEO Complaints Program and the ADR Program. However, while the feedback surveys do not provide an explicit pledge of confidentiality, they do let the respondents know that responses are anonymous.
