General Comment

Please ensure that there is a significant requirement to RETAIN vets. My former employer hired many Vets only to furlough them after they had met all of the program requirements. I see too many companies that will do what must be done to meet the minimum requirements of these types of programs, get their rewards from the government and turn around and lay off the veterans. There MUST be follow up to ensure companies are not allowed to carry on this type of practice. If companies do this, they MUST be made to return anything awarded to them by the government.

Semper Fi,
Donna Dunn
