far far too much information is collected from people about tobacco. this agency has about 100 years of data on collecting information about tobacco. i think we need to take actions on the data we have collectedinstead of getting new data year after year after year. this is expensive taxation for no good purpose. use what you have.it is very vry massive data already collected. you do it and then you dont use what you collect. shows massive waste. the taxpayers are tired of being bludgeoned for this non essential information.
