General Comment

It would be useful in such a comment request to the public to provide some context. I would like to know how this redistricting actually impacts voting districts. Do the requirements and expectations allow those who verify the VTD to apply their own rules and manipulate the boundaries? What I'm asking is whether there are any restrictions on gerrymandering, a common and destructive problem with respect to redistricting. What controls and checks are in place to prevent this from happening?

If there is really an intent in these requests for the public to comment, then more clear background or context should be provided.

I don't agree to having my personal contact information (e-mail or phone #) released to the public or posted. Agency access is acceptable.
