Comment: This rule appears to be necessary in preventing governmental waste. I agree that criminals should not be eligible for the benefits; however, I am surprised that this is not already a law. Again with 4009 and 4015, I find it difficult to believe that this has not already been implemented? How else do states determine eligibility? Is it by good faith? From what I read, SNAP seems to be an efficient program with little fraud, but with these implementations, it seems that this program will become much more stringent, which is a good thing. *
