Subject: FMLA usage

To whom it may concern,

I m having radiation treatments twice a day, 5 days a week, for 7 weeks. I have a Meningioma grade 2 that is growing and it is located above my brain stem between the two halves of the brain, pushing my left interior carotid artery and wrapping around my left optical canal and nerves.

It won't be known till 2 months after radiation treatments if the radiation stopped the tumor from growing. If it is still growing very risky brain surgery would have to be done.

I say all this to say: I go to work in between the radiation treatments every day. My sick leave is accrued leave. HOWEVER the FMLA is dwindling because it also applies to my sick leave. How will this be available if I need further care such as brain surgery? It seems illogical to me that if a day reports work then why should FMLA be counted? Shouldn't FMLA be for days that are completely used for sick time?

Sincerely,

Anna Barnes, F.C.C.M.
