Total Spending on Inadvertent and Emergency Out-of-network Costs

As part of the Department's rate review process, carriers were asked to provide data on out-of-network claims spending. All carriers from which the Department obtained data have experienced a reduction in involuntary out-of-network claim costs since the Act has taken effect. The change in the law likely contributed to reduced costs associated with claims for involuntary (i.e. emergency and inadvertent) out-of-network services paid by carriers. The extent to which costs were reduced varied by market and carrier. The size of the reduction may also vary. The total carrier spending on involuntary out-of-network services (as defined by each carrier) was reduced by 56% for the individual health coverage (IHC) market and 38% for the small employer health coverage (SEH) market. In the IHC market, the reduction in involuntary out-of-network service claim costs for carriers, adjusted for membership changes, ranged from approximately 30% to approximately 70%. Within the SEH market, the reduction on spending on claims for involuntary out-of-network services, adjusted for membership changes, ranged from approximately 20% to approximately 70%. Within the large group market there was much more limited data, but that data showed a reduction of approximately 48% adjusted for membership changes.

Complaints Related to Out-of-network Health Care Charges

Between January 1, 2020 and December 31, 2020, the Department received 76 complaints relating to out-of-network health care charges.
